

Important things to know and do when supporting my Mum, Mary Smith

	Approaches to take and things to do straight away	Approaches and things to do once my Mum has got to know you and trust you	Things to do only after to talking to me and agreeing with me first
	Take a cake (I will cover the cost) and say to my Mum “Oh look, I’ve brought a cake. Do you fancy a wee cup of tea?” Encourage my Mum to make the tea.
	Always use a gentle approach.
	Say “Hello, my name is…” each time you visit.
	Talk gently- not too much but enough to build a relationship.
	Be responsive. Always use your initiative. If what you had planned doesn’t work, try something else. There’s always washing to do and surfaces to clean if all else fails.
	Keep in touch with me, Sarah and always acknowledge me if you see me in passing.

	Keep a note of what you have been doing whilst with my Mum in the communication book.
		Once the cooker is in place, offer my Mum soup, cheese on toast or scrabbled egg- she loves all 3
		Take my Mum on trips out in the car (mileage covered)
		Support my Mum to attend the Photography Club hosted by the Dementia Resource Centre.

			Help my Mum have a shower or attend to personal care- please do not try and do this until we have agreed that the time is right.
			Clean the bathroom or Hoover- my Mum does her own hoovering. She is proud and likes to look after her own bathroom, but really she does need help here but please don't offer to help with this until we have agreed.
